President's Message

On February 18 we will selecting 4 of our fellow Country Greeners to serve on your board of directors for a 2-year term. In person voting will be 6 to 7 pm. The following have provided their resumes for consideration, Caren Bassoff, Lisa Degnan, Ron Petersdorf, Joe Rana and Joanne Slocum. This your opportunity to have a say in our future direction. Two of the candidates are seeking Country Greens board membership for the first time, one has served only for a short time and the others have served multiple terms. Thank you all for your willingness to serve.

Please look at their resumes carefully and decide which ones will best meet your expectations to look out for the wellbeing of the community. The four with the highest vote totals will begin their 2-year term immediately. In the next few weeks, please take the opportunity to speak to the candidates and current board members with your questions and expectations about our shared future. Every member of the board has an obligation to be fair and truthful when considering issues and complaints. A board member must always think of the impact of a decision on the entire community. Owners and residents should know decisions are made in good faith and remember board members are bound to follow the law, rules and documents without partiality. Additional obligations include fiduciary responsibility, maintaining the community properly, planning for the future, making improvements and do so with the in with only the general welfare in mind. The 7 board members also have the responsibility of choosing the HOA officers. With 4 board positions being open, there is possible change in our future. Your responsibility is to choose wisely.

Thanks to the efforts David Allen and Lillian Baumann there will be a candidate nights Wed. Feb 5th at 7 pm the clubhouse. All are encouraged to attend. Only 1 owner of each unit may vote in the election of a board member. You will be receiving voting paperwork from Campbell Management. A person may vote by mail, proxy or in person the on Feb 18th. The results will be announced that evening. Following the election, the new board will caucus to determine the slate of officers for the next year, this will be followed by our regular February meeting with the new members taking their place and be welcomed to the board.

Please do not ask me who you should vote or my opinion of the candidates. I believe that all the candidates have sufficient qualifications and will make good board members. It is great that we have a real election with great candidates. I hope this is predictor of a positive future our little village.

See you around the neighborhood,

Bob Freedman, President, mrfreed@aol.com

PS On behalf of the 2019-20 board of directors, thank you for all your co-operation, your questions and even complaints. I think we are moving in a positive direction and hope you agree. Please remember all board members are residents who sacrifice their time and effort without compensation to make our hidden gem a great place to live.

OBITUARY

Sadly, Kathleen Ann Procopio died January 5, 2020

It is known that Kathleen was a great cook. I believe that the secret to good food lies, not in complicated ingredients, but in the ability to take the simplest of ingredients and create something magical. Her magic was not only in her food but is still alive in her family and friends.

On behalf of Joseph Procopio and his family, they would like to thank everyone for their condolences and support after the loss of Kathleen.

FOR YOUR HEALTHAcupuncture ~ What makes it Valid

Acupuncture, an ancient medicine utilized in China over 3000 years, is presently utilized by every country in the world where millions of people continue to benefit by this ancient practice. Yet, despite the fact that Acupuncture is ancient and still being practiced, what continues to be questioned is the validity of this medicine.

Something not yet known by most Americans is the educational requirements to become a licensed Acupuncturist just in the state of Florida. First thing to recognize is acupuncturist are primary licensed health care providers. Because practicing acupuncture requires the use of a stainless-steel medical device called a “acupuncture needle” and the placing of needles within the skin of the body is an act of medicine. This takes developed skill, knowledge and lots of practice. The average acupuncturist studies over 5 to 7 years. One can earn a Bachelor of Science and Master’s degree in Chinese Herbal Medicine and, optionally, can continue to earn a Doctorates or PH degree in Oriental Medicine. But that’s not all! In order to be licensed to practice acupuncture on the general public, it is mandatory by the Certifying Board of Florida, that each graduate must first pass a 400 question state board exam. Once all is complete, an Acupuncture physician can diagnose physical ailments, (not diseases like MDs), and can prescribe natural herbal medicines. In Florida, an acupuncture physician can provide exercise, and nutritional corrective strategies. They also can apply injection therapy procedure such as vitamins, Ozone, and natural homeopathic pain and flu preventative solutions. Many of the advance procedures require additional certifying hours too.

To truly understand what and how an acupuncture physician operates in utilizing the act of acupuncture, we have to begin with some basic anatomy and physiology, neurological laws and science-based principles and theories. But I will spare you the long years of study it takes to comprehend all this mastery. If we are to simplify how this magical healing modality called acupuncture truly works, we need to first recognize the history of this medicine. And, despite our cultural lack of understanding, let’s give credit where credit is due for its longevity of health benefits alone. Secondly, we must acknowledge that this is no hokey pokey medicine but rather a scientific based medicine that continues to help thousands of people even in today’s modern world.

Today, the medical society has scientifically proven acupuncture to be an excellent remedy at reducing pain. Its ability to calm the physiological response of inflammation makes it a natural medicine that can do so much more than manage pain. If you never before experienced the effects of acupuncture, these questions are normal to ponder. Does it Hurt? What does it help? How does it work? Stay tune to our winter season health series and you will soon have the answers. What I like for my readers to understand, is there’s more to it than the medical device itself. The main key you should know is that an acupuncturist does not just punctures needles in any point of the body. The physician first and foremost focuses on what messages the body is sending so it can determine the right combination sequence of needling to apply. Through diagnostic intake methods such as feeling someone’s pulse, evaluating the body’s color of skin and temperature; viewing the shape, moisture, and color coating of the tongue, listening to the sound of your voice and even inquiring what color or flavors you most recently crave. These are just a few examples that give clues and indicators from your body’s vital micro-systems. Like an X-ray or Blood and Urine analyses utilized to reveal the internal functions of the body, an acupuncture physician diagnoses the mechanistic state and functional health of your body by inquiring and observing the patient with their own eyes, ears and touch. This is the most important start for the appropriate treatment plan and resolution outcome. So, stay tune next month, there still remains the constant challenged question “How does it work”?

IN THE GARDEN

DIY Succulent Garden ~ UF/IFAS Gardening Solutions

Succulents are a group of plants with fleshy stems and leaves that are efficient for storing water. Because of this, they don't need much supplemental irrigation. In Florida's rainy, humid climate, a good way to grow succulents is in containers, where water and soil are easier to control.

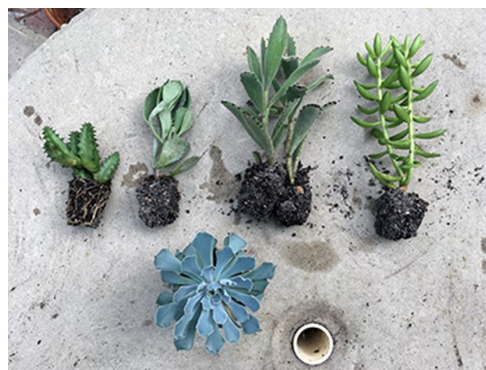

Got the urge to try growing succulents? With just a few supplies, you can create a unique plant focal piece for your home or landscape.

1. Start with a well-drained creative container.

While not terribly creative, this terracotta container will drain well.

3. Once you've filled your container with soil gather your plants and plan out where they'll go in the container.

4. Start planting! Be aware that succulents are delicate and may have leaves that break off when you move them. This is okay, you can either discard the broken leaves, or plant them in the soil where they may take root and thrive.

Don't worry if a few leaves break off, they can be planted too.

2. For your soil you'll want to combine garden soil, some small rocks, and sand (we used play sand) to create a coarse, well-drained potting mixture.

A mix of gravel and play sand makes for a well-draining medium.

5. It's that easy. Add a little more soil to the container if necessary and you are done. We opted to cover the soil in our container with some black river rocks which gave our planter a finished look.

Now you have a lovely, low-maintenance container planting! Succulent gardens can make great personalized gifts as well.
